Part B: Questionnaire

Your duty to take reasonable care not to make a misrepresentation

When applying for insurance, you have a legal duty under the Insurance Contracts Act 1984 to take reasonable care not to make a misrepresentation to the insurer before the contract of insurance is entered into (your duty). To meet this duty, each person whose life is to be insured must also take reasonable care not to make such a misrepresentation.

A misrepresentation may include a false answer, an answer that is only partially true, or an answer which does not fairly reflect the truth.

Your duty also applies before you extend or vary an existing contract of insurance or reinstate a contract of insurance.

Before you enter into a contract of insurance or do any of these things, we will ask you questions and will use the answers in deciding whether to insure you and on what terms and for what premium. To ensure you meet your duty, you must answer our questions truthfully, accurately and completely. (Further guidance on answering our questions is set out below.)

If your duty is not met

In exercising our rights, we may consider whether your cover is constituted by separate contracts of life insurance and apply our rights separately to each type of cover.

If you fail to meet your duty, and we would not have insured you if you had answered our questions truthfully, accurately and completely, we may avoid the contract within 3 years of entering into it. If we choose not to avoid the contract, we may, at any time, reduce the amount you have been insured for by using a formula that takes into account the premium that would have been payable if you had met your duty. If the contract provides cover on death, we may only exercise this right within 3 years of entering into the contract.

If we choose not to avoid the contract or reduce the amount you have been insured for, we may, at any time, vary the contract which may reduce our liability under the contract in respect of a claim. This right does not apply if the contract provides cover on death.

If you fail to comply with your duty and the failure was fraudulent, we may refuse to pay a claim and treat your policy as never having existed.
